Commencement Hall At Bethany Will Be Dedicated Friday

BETHANY, W. Va., May 28.—Bethany College will take a step forward Memorial Day when Commencement Hall is reopened and dedicated. The hall was originally built in 1871 for a chapel but in 1904 it had to be transformed into a dormitory for men. After Cochran Hall was built there was little or no need for the improved dormitory and so the building stood idle for several years until Dr. Cloyd Goodnight, president of the college, started a movement to remodel the building and make it thoroughly modern. A number of the loyal friends of the college got behind the movement and today the building is practically completed and will be ready to serve the college this coming year.

The building is of two stories, built of brick, and in Gothic architectural style.

LENHART GASOLINE TANK AND PUMP ON PRIVATE PROPERTY

Discussion in Council Monday night of the gasoline tank and pump at the Lenhart garage at Race street and Davidson avenue developed that the owner has placed the tank and pump on his own property and that city has no authority other than inspecting the equipment and seeing that the regulations are complied with.

It was said that when the City Planning Commission served notice to stop the installation the understanding was that the pump was to be located at the curb. The city cannot prevent the location of either tank or pump on private property, it was explained.

The question as to cutting the curb across, it was said no permit had been issued for the installation of the pump. VETO OF HOWELL-BARTLEY BILL IS LESS DOUBTFUL

As Some Misunderstandings of Its Provisions Are Cleared Up.

NOT ALL R. R.'S OPPOSE IT

By David Lawrence.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Organized labor has lined up solidly behind the Howell-Bartley bill which proposes to abolish the U. S. Railroad Labor Board and substitute for it a Board of Mediation and Conciliation. Friends of President Coolidge have been saying in the past few days that he would veto the bill but there is a general misunderstanding about its provisions and if it should pass both houses of Congress a veto may be said to be doubtful.

The writer previously stated a few days ago that the Howell-Bartley plan would eliminate the representatives of the public and leave railway disputes to be decided by the interested parties. The truth is the representatives of the employers and employees will alone constitute the membership of the four national adjustment boards which are to settle grievances and conflicts of interpretations on rules. But the principal body, to be known as the Board of Mediation and Conciliation, will consist of five members, all of whom will represent the public. This is directly in line with the recommendation of the late President Harding. For, at present, the Railroad Labor Board consists of three representatives of the railways, three of labor, and three of the public. This means that three men, representing the public, usually have the deciding vote as almost invariably the parties at interest influence the votes of their representatives. To cure this weakness, the representatives of the employers and employees will appear before the Board of Mediation as advocates and pleaders for their respective causes and the judgment will be rendered by five impartial judges.

The four national adjustment boards are not to assume jurisdiction over disputes unless the employers or employees make application. This means that if the union and company, union and the railway employers can adjust working conditions and wages between themselves, the adjustment boards will not come into the picture at all. There are certain company unions which are objecting to the Howell-Bartley bill on the ground that it is unnecessary but the advocates of the measure say that a long list of labor organizations do want such tribunals and the bill proposes to give them the machinery of adjustment which they seek.

The Howell-Bartley bill combines many of the features of the Newlands Act, the McMan Act and the present Transportation Act. It has, however, introduced one important change which has been the basis of opposition by railway employers. It prohibits the employer from interfering in the selection of representatives of front controlling the organizations of employees so as to dictate the selection of employee representatives. This has been inserted to overcome the embarrasment encountered by the present United States Railroad Labor Board in determining exactly who

SYRUP PEPSIN
Will restore good humor

Mothers! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. Ida Williamson of 1618 Pine St., Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Lou Brawley of Salt, Ark., never have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the strongest the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to children. It is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health
Purchase a bottle of Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent. It is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, flatulency, headache, colds and other evidences of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the bowels cost, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Send me a free trial bottle to a family. I need a good laxative and would like to prove what you say about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin by actual test. Send me a free trial bottle. Address: Name: Address: Not more than one free trial bottle to a family.

actually represent the employees on certain railroad systems. It is the outcropping of the old fight as between national labor organizations like the American Federation of Labor and such unions as are fostered by the Pennsylvania Railroad for its own employees. On the Pennsylvania nobody can represent the workmen in a dispute except persons actually on the Pennsylvania's payroll.

The principal weakness of the present Transportation Act has been the failure of the parties at interest to form the local adjustment boards provided by law. These organizations were left to voluntary action by the employers, and company, union and the railway employers can adjust working conditions and wages between themselves, the adjustment boards will not come into the picture at all. There are certain company unions which are objecting to the Howell-Bartley bill on the ground that it is unnecessary but the advocates of the measure say that a long list of labor organizations do want such tribunals and the bill proposes to give them the machinery of adjustment which they seek.

One of the objections to the bill said to emanate from the White House is the appropriation of $500,000 for the expense of the machinery. The proponents of the bill point out that $500,000 is now being spent under the Transportation Act and that the additional $100,000 is good insurance against another railway strike, particularly since the last one is estimated to have cost the government about $2,000,000 while the railroads are known to have spent many times that sum themselves in fighting it.

The proposed bill provides about $100,000 for the maintenance of the Board of Mediation and Conciliation thus saving between $250,000 and $500,000 over the cost of the present

Labor Board, which saving would be expended in the expense of the four national adjustment boards. Fully $5,000,000 is appropriated annually by Congress for the Interstate Commerce Commission, so relatively speaking the amount needed to keep peace between railroads and their employees is not as large as the sum needed to regulate disputes between the railroads and shippers.

Several of the railroads are lukewarm in their opposition to the bill but certain roads which have always fought the present Labor Board and its decisions are working tooth and nail to defeat the bill or for a presidential veto. It looks as if some action will be taken on it before adjournment or a filibuster against adjournment may be started. For the Democrats and insurgent Republicans are in the main in sympathy with the proposal.

OFFERS TO BURN OR STEAL AUTOS

New Type of Criminal Now Operating in Kansas.

A type of criminal has just appeared in Kansas. He is a professional at getting rid of motorcars in order to collect the insurance for the owner of the car. All he wants to know is whether the owner wants his car to disappear and whether the owner has $100 in cash that he is willing to contribute to seeing that the car does disappear.

There is no doubt of men being hired in Kansas to get rid of cars by burning or theft or by sinking them in rivers. But E. E. Scott, state fire marshal, has no record of any other man who seems to have made a profession simply of getting rid of motorcars in any way the owner desired. The first report on him came from Hays, Kan. The same man is known to have been in at least half a dozen towns of the state in the last month. He is about thirty years of age, well dressed and appears to be a young business man, suave, aggressive and a good talker.

How He Does His Work.
In some way he obtains a list of "prospects." His prospects are men who own motorcars that are from one to two years old where the amount of insurance carried is still quite high compared with the actual cost of the car. The insurance companies have a standard rate of depreciation for all cars. The first visit of the man to a prospect is to find out if the car owner might be interested in a new car and the suggestion is made that the owner visit some of the motorcar dealers and ascertain how much he could get for his old car in exchange for a new one. He does not offer to sell any car and frankly admits that he is not a car dealer but tells the owner that he will have a proposition to make in a few days.

Reveals His Proposition.
When he returns to the owner he is told about what would be offered for the old car in exchange for a new model, either of the same make or of another brand. In some instances the owners find that they can get more money to exchange the old car for a new one of the same make than to trade for another brand. But they like the other brand better for some reason and prefer to buy it.
"They offer you $500 for your car," says the visitor to the motorcar owner. "You have an insurance policy for $1,000 on that car. If it should be burned today or should be stolen the insurance companies would pay you $500 to $600 for your old car. Give us $100 cash and I will get rid of your old car for you. The insurance company will pay you cash and will not have to make any trades. You will get more money after paying me a hundred dollars than if you traded, and you can deal wherever you want to."

Guarantees No Risk.
The man is willing to guarantee that the car owner takes no risk. He is given a choice of two methods. One is by burning. The man has told several prospects that he would guarantee the car to be so good that only the identification numbers would be left. "The job will be so good that the insurance company will not try to repair the car," he offers. Or he will simply steal the car. This takes longer to get a settlement, as the car must be missing 60 days before the insurance companies are required to pay the claim.

When the car owner did not look with favor upon the proposal and did not want to join in the crime, the nerve of the visitor is shown by the fact that he brought forth a little loose-leaf memorandum book and friends who might be interested in his proposition.

It is known that the man called upon nine different men in Hays with his proposition in a single day. In every case he got them interested in getting a new car and did not disclose his plans until the second visit. At Salina, Ellsworth and Lincoln he called upon several in each place.

Prehistoric Skeleton Found in Side of Cliff

A huge skeleton, believed to be that of a prehistoric human being, has been discovered in the Salina river country, north of Lewistown, Idaho, by two members of the state highway department who have brought their find to Lewistown. The lower jaw and vertebrae will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., for examination as to the probable date of existence.

The bones were found in the side of a cliff at a depth estimated to be 50 feet. Nearly the entire skeleton was recovered, the excavators proceeding with more care after determining that the find might prove to be of scientific value.

Measuring more than eight feet in height and possessing numerous strange features, the skeleton has aroused widespread interest. Three physicians who examined it pronounced it to be that of a woman.

Belief that the person was of a herbivorous race has been expressed, owing to the peculiar formation of the jaws and teeth. Both the upper and lower jaws have only ten teeth each and all are intact.

A Long Way Off

"Have you been here?" one of the women asked.

Cokers at Home Thursday; Martin Furnitures Will Be Attraction; homo Coming

"Whitely," Former Coker, With the Visitors; Have Won
12 Out of 11.

RANDOM IS INTERESTED

The Connellsville Independents will be at home on Thursday of this week. The Martin Furniture team of Pittsburgh, a club that has been cleaning up in that district, will be here. The Cokers never take on anything easy. Of this fans may rest assured. Every club that has been on the Connellsville schedule this season has been a worthy one and when a victory is scored it means something. The Martin team is no exception. It has been knocking the spots off the ball in past weeks and will give the locals a great run. Of 14 games played to date the Martin club has won 11, losing two. The team has won over each club as the Sharon Oaks, Warren, Ohio, Minnow and others. "Whitely" Shomo, once a Connellsville shortstop, will be at that position with the Martin team. He will be greeted by many of his old friends when he arrives here.

HOMESTEAD GRAYS, STRENGTHENED FOR GAME AT SCOTSDALE

SCOTSDALE, May 27.—The Homestead Grays will play here Wednesday, May 28, at 6:15 o'clock. Of the new players with the Grays, Bill Gray was one of the leading players of the Pittsburgh Keystones three years ago and was a member of the "Five Stars" of Cleveland Gray, besides being a good outfielder, is also a hard hitter. Backwith, all around baseball star of the Negro National League, who played with the Chicago Giants last season, has been playing a sensational game for the Grays. Bucknight Smith, a speedball artist of Baltimore, makes his first appearance with the Grays. Smith is said to have more speed than Oscar Owens, who has been the boss of speedball artists in the Pittsburgh District. Ed. Rife hails from Chicago, where he played with the Giants. He is six feet, two inches tall and weighs 230 pounds.

The Grays have already defeated Nairona, Nash, Connellsville, Reinhold, Lineys, Monessen, Cumberland, Md., twice, Pinkethers, St. Francis and other good semi-pro clubs.

Scouty Terminals will be here for two games Memorial Day—at 10:45 and 3:15. On Saturday, May 31, Scottdale goes to Charleroi to play the second game of a series.

High School Boys To Be Entered in W. P. I. A. L. Meet

Connellsville High School will be represented in the track and field meet of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association at Pittsburgh on Saturday, May 31. The events will be run off at Schenley oval.

The boys here are delighted at the prospect of going to the meet. Coach J. M. Leray and eight athletes will make the trip. This will include the relay team and the other runners. Hilliard and Ross, the only two field men to earn points at Dawson, will be included.

The meet is a big one. Scores of schools enter representatives. The Cokers expect some big things from the relay team in this event. The outfit ran away from the entire field at Dawson Saturday. Carlo lofts across the blue at the finish 50 yards ahead of the nearest racer.

EVERSON KAMELS SEEKING OTHER TEAMS TO BEAT

The Everson Kamel Club, which has been going at a great pace since the baseball season opened, would like to book games. Write George Krumer, Box 479, Everson. The Kamels defeated the Phil Tornados Saturday, 8-1. Recently they won the Davidson nine, 1-0. The P. A. K. of Everson went down by a 15-1 score. Morrell suffered an even worse defeat, 14-1. Reese, the Kamel warrior, had seven straight strikeouts in the game with Morrell. In five innings he retired 10 batters by hit route.

In the Realm of Sports.
The North End All-Stars, known as the "League of Nations Team," defeated the Connellsville Pirates at Poplar Grove last evening, 7-6. Standouts for the All Stars, hat it strikeouts in the seven innings.

The Baltimore Athletics defeated the South Connellsville Independents last evening 5-0 at Baltimore.

Johnny Ross says he expects to do his "stuff" better in Pittsburgh on Saturday than last week at Dawson. The Coker jumper couldn't get loose from the ground in his head jump falling two feet below his usual mark.

The Connellsville Independents, playing Clarkburg, W. Va., at the State Line Park on Sunday, defeated that team 5-0. The Cokers were in good form. They have not dropped a contest since leaving the Homestead travels on Monday, May 19.

Jack Zile of Pittsburgh, staging a comeback last night at Pittsburgh, won from Ray Mitchell of Philadelphia and is again in the chase for the lightweight title.

"Dob" Hilliard has a real athletic career ahead of him in the Connellsville High School. The youth should go big in football next fall after getting off to a good start in the past season. He will be more experienced in track and field also. "Dob" for the highest number of individual points scored in the meet last Saturday. "Dob" will be hard to beat out next spring. The youth has already learned that modesty runs hand in hand with success in athletics and his progress is being watched with interest by his friends.

ILLINI THRIVE BY COACH GILL'S ZEAL

Orange-Blue Track Teams Famous Under Pilot.

Coach Harry Gill is preparing another of his famous University of Illinois track teams. Gill is noted for the championship teams which he has turned out. When he first came to Illinois in 1904, he quickly assumed control of the team and started working on the youngsters. Illinois won its first track championship in 1907. Since that time, the Illini have led the conference nine times.

In the twenty years prior to the 1924 season, Gill's men won 93 of their 97 dual meets, while two were tied. In 1924, the Illini won the indoor conference championship, and the outlook is good for them to repeat in their outdoor meets. The Illini are especially strong in the hurdles, pole vault, javelin and shot put. Dan Kinsey is the hardest Dean Howenell, in the pole vault; Milt Angler, in the javelin and Fred Hillhammer, in the shot, are Illini aspirants for the American Olympic team.

Brownell holds the world's indoor record for the pole vault. This mark of 13 feet 5.5 inches was set in the conference indoor meet this year. He also holds the American outdoor collegiate record of 13 feet 2 inches made in the outdoor conference meet in 1923.

Dan Kinsey tied the world's record of 9.00 2/3 in the 75-yard high hurdle event at the Illinois relay carnival this year.

Milton Angler holds the American record of 209 feet 8 inches in the javelin and the conference record of 108 feet 10 1/4 inches. Angler, while in high school, represented the United States at the Olympics four years ago. At that time he made the best American throw, placing seventh.

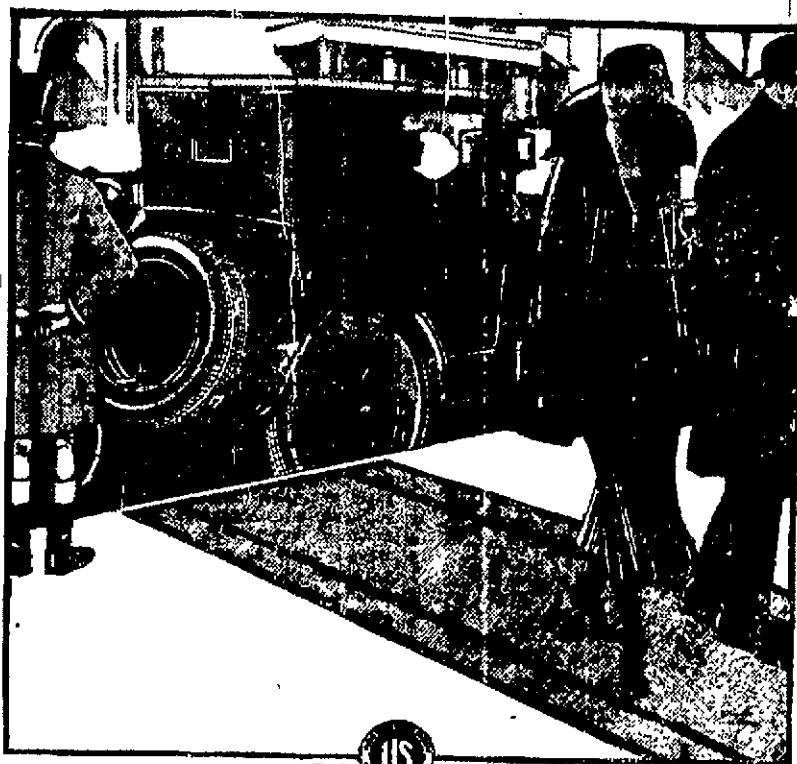

Fred Hillhammer has been tossing the shot near the 45-foot mark consistently this season. His best mark in competition this year was 44 feet 2 7/8 inches against Iowa. If the discus thrower has a mark of 141 feet and 2 inches. He threw the javelin 104 feet in an exhibition meet last fall.

The United States polo team will be represented in the Olympic games by Captain Thomas Hitchcock Jr., Rodman Wrenhamer and, Prince J. Bonseke Jr. and Brundage, too.

Winners of the American and European team competitions in the Davis cup tennis series will meet September 8, 9 and 10 probably at the Longwood courts at Chestnut Hill adjacent to Boston.

For a cool and efficient motor

PROVE it yourself! Fill your crank-case with high-heat-resisting Atlantic Motor Oil. Then give your motor the severest operating test you know—driving through dense traffic in low gear; up steep hills in second; over long stretches without stop. Atlantic won't break down!

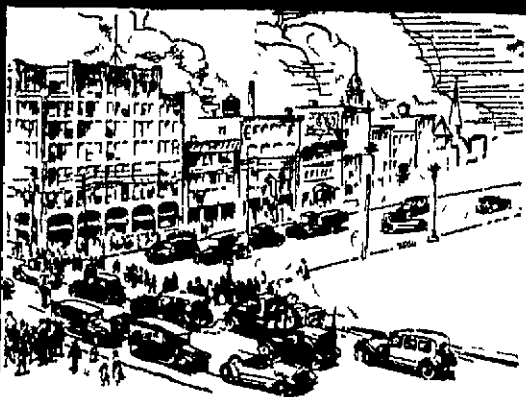

You yourself can tell: By the way your motor holds its power—by the way Atlantic keeps the pistons sealed; by the same quietness your motor has at the end of a run that it had at the start; by the "feel" of the oil before and after it has become heated.

The extraordinary high-heat resistance of this oil is a recent achievement of the Atlantic refineries. Use it and know the full meaning of motor dependability, efficiency and longevity.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"FLESH AND BLOOD," showing today at the Paramount, presents Lon Chaney in a splendid part which will recall his memorable acting in "The Miracle Man" and "The Penalty." In these pictures he portrayed the role of a drunk. In the present feature, he is again a drunk, but not one by adoption. You give him the most sympathy for he is a bounded figure of the law—a man sent up for 15 years, and whose unconquerable love and hatred cause him to escape—to look upon his loved ones and to mete out vengeance upon the man responsible for his incarceration. The most of soul for the story. It is a mental study as you watch the expression of the law across Chaney's countenance. His suffering is intense, particularly noticeable when he sees his daughter, now grown to womanhood, and is unable to reveal his identity. He does not want to hurt her. Her daughter of her father is ideal. So he uses his crutches, finds sanctuary in Chinese quarters, and reveals in his newfound happiness.

Wednesday and Thursday, "Cause for Divorce" will be shown.

The Soisson

"RUPERT OF HENTZAU," the principal attraction today Wednesday at the Soisson, is one of the biggest productions of the year. It is a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," and all of those who remember that picture will be delighted to know that they can now see the sequel in a very elaborate fast-moving picture.

The plot centers around an indirect letter written by Queen Flavia (Marianne Hammerstein) to her English lover, Rudolph Ransdyl (Bert Lytell), whom she was not seen since her marriage to the King of Ruritania (also played by Bert Lytell). The narrative is stolen on route by Rupert Hentzau (Lew Cody), who hopes that by turning it over to the King, he may win pardon for himself for a former conspiracy against the life and throne of his royal master.

Added by the Queen's loyal friends, Fritz von Trappenstein (Bryant Washburn), Colonel Sept (Hobart Bosworth) and Lieutenant Ransdyl (Irving Cummings). Ransdyl endeavors to foil the schemes of the crafty Rupert, who is assisted by his wealthy cousin, Count Richtenheim (Adolphe Menjou). The trail leads from the town of Wintenberg to Zenda Castle from there to the King's hunting lodge and to the city of Strelson, and finally ends in a small room where Rudolph corners Rupert and fights a duel to the death with him.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Lou Tellegen and Pauline Frederick will be seen in "Let Not Man Put Asunder."

The Orpheum

"THE WHITE SISTER," showing today, Wednesday and Thursday at the Orpheum, is a picture that will linger long in the memory of those who are fortunate enough to see it. Lillian Gish, who appears in the stellar role, reaches the very highest points in action, charm and delightful expression.

Mrs. Gish has never appeared to better advantage and her restrained conception of the difficult role of the famous characterizations. Those who recall her in "The Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East," "Hearts of the World," and "Orphans of the Storm," will, it is promised, be delighted still further by her versatility and the depth of her playing in her latest effort.

The story was taken from the famous novel by F. Marion Crawford and screened entirely in Italy and northern Africa. Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Tivoli and even Mt. Vesuvius were some of the "locations" used, and as the result, according to critics in the larger cities where the picture has played it is the most beautiful production yet made.

Ronald Colman, one of Broadway's well-known leading men makes his first screen appearance in "The White Sister." J. Barney Sherry, Charles Lane and Gail Kane are other well-known actors in the cast, the remainder of which was selected from the Royal Theatre of Italy.

Friday and Saturday, Tom Mix will be seen in "The Eyes of the Forest."

The Highgrader

Deep in her heart Moya was not at all sure. What did she know of him? And why should she care what he was? The man was a stranger to her. Forty-eight hours ago she had never seen him. Why was it that every good-looking vagabond with a dash of the devil in him drew her sympathy? She recalled now that he had hesitated when she had mentioned his name, no doubt making up his mind to let her think him other than he was. The sheriff must know what he was talking about when he said the man was an outlaw. But the appearance of him pleaded potentially. Surely those clear unflinching eyes were not the homes of villainy. Nor could she find it possible to think his gallant grace of bearing the possession of a miscreant.

Before the day was out her faith in him had sunk to zero. Captain Kilmeny returned from the camp of the miners with the detailed story of the holdup.

Two masked men on horseback had robbed the treasurer of the Gunnison County Fair association as he was driving to the bank to deposit the receipts of the day. The men had not been recognized, but the description of the horses corresponded closely to those ridden by Kilmeny and Colter. It was recalled that these two men had disappeared as soon as the bucking broncho contest was over, not half an hour before the robbery. This would allow them just time to return to the corral on the outskirts of the town, where they had left their mounts, and to saddle so as to meet the treasurer on his way to the bank. It happened that the corral was deserted at the time, the boy in charge having left to see the finals of the contest. Cumulative evidence of guilt lay in the disappearance from the fishing camp not only of the two men suspected, but also of their companions, Curly and Moe.

"Think he really did it. Ned?" India asked her brother.

"Can't say, sis. Looks like it," he answered gloomily.

Of the party at the lodge only one member was pleased at the turn events had taken. Verinder's manner was as openly triumphant as he dared allow it to become. It elicited ostentatiously, "I told you so."

CHAPTER IV

"I'm Here, Neighbor."

Moya still rode afternoons with her friends, fished occasionally, and took her regular hand at bridge. But it was unaccountably in vain that her rest in these amusements was found. She could give no satisfactory reason for it, but she felt as if something had passed out of her life forever. It was as if the bubbling youth in her veins quashed. The outstanding note of her had been the eagerness with which she had run out to meet new experiences. Now she found herself shrinking from them. Whenever she could she was glad to slip away by herself. To the charge that she was in love with this young vagabond she would have given a prompt denial. Nevertheless, Lady Farquhar recognized the symptoms as dangerous.

On the fifth day after the Gunnison trip the young people at the lodge made a party to the Sunbeam creek. They followed the stream far into the hills, riding along the trail which bordered it. Kilmeny and Verinder carried lunch baskets, for they were to make a day of it and return only in time for a late dinner.

Moya made her brave pretense of gaiety. With alacrity she responded to Verinder's challenges of a bet on the relative sizes of their catches.

But as soon as the rest were out of sight she sat down in a shady spot and fell to musing.

The voice of a grizzled elder startled her from her dreams. Her lifted eyes took in the grim look of the man, paraded with weapons ready in his hands.

"Mornin', miss," he nodded amiably. "Good-mornin'." And with a deputy sheriff, are you not?

"That's the best, ma'am. You belong in the English outfit, I reckon. Funny about some members of your crowd having the same name as the man we're looking for."

"Mr. Kilmeny, you mean?"

"Jack Kilmeny? Yes, ma'am. Came from the old country, his father did—son of some big gun over there. Like-ly he's some kin to your friends."

He put the last observation as a question, with a sharp glance from under his heavy gray eyebrows. Moya chose to regard it as a statement.

"Are you still searching for him?" she asked.

"You bet we are. The sheriff's got a notion he's up in these hills somewhere. But if you ask me, he's way he was busy looking himself way off in Mount county, clear off the map. He used to punch cows up there and he knows all kinds of holes to hide in."

"Yes," Moya assented listlessly.

"He had his getaway all planned before ever he came down here. That's a cinch. The fishing was all a bluff. The four of them had the hold-up arranged weeks ago."

"Don't you think there's a chance he didn't do it?" she asked in a forlorn way.

"Not a chance. Jack Kilmeny and Colter pulled off the play. What the others had to do with it I don't know."

GULBRANSEN The Registering Piano

The Registering Piano

The Gulbransen Registering Piano of today is the world's latest achievement in musical instruments.

It stands absolutely alone in the artistic results it produces and the ease with which they are obtained. It is played by music roll and pedals, as are other instruments of its type, but there the similarity ends.

The Gulbransen registers each exact "touch" on each note. It can be played with all the feeling, the life, the delicacy of the very finest piano music you ever listened to. Because these are facts, we are insistent that the Gulbransen be not confused with other instruments of the same type. We challenge investigation of it as an Easy-to-Play Registering Piano that registers your exact touch, that registers your time, that registers your expression.
